NOURISHING KNOWLEDGE

Gendering Asia

Gendering Asia is a well-established and exciting series addressing the ways in which societal powers intersect with the constructions of gender, sex, sexuality and the body in Asian societies.

The series invites discussion of how people shape their gendered identities and become shaped by the very societies in which they live. The series is concerned with the region as a whole in order to capture the wide range of understandings and practices that are found in East, Southeast and South Asian societies with respect to gendered roles and relations in various social, political, religious and economic contexts.

As a multidisciplinary series, Gendering Asia explores theoretical, empirical and methodological issues in the social sciences.

Latest Books in the Series

The Authority of Influence

Women and Power in Burmese History

Jessica Harriden

This book explores the relationship between gender and power in Burmese history from pre-colonial times to the present day and aims to identify the sources, nature and limitations of women's power. It thus examines the concept of 'family' in Burmese political culture, how various influences like Buddhism shaped Burmese concepts of gender and power, and how the effects of prolonged armed conflict, economic isolation and political oppression have constrained opportunities for women to attain power in contemporary Burma.

Vol. 7, April 2012, 384 pp., illustrated
Hbk • 978-87-7694-88-1 • £50, $80
Pbk • 978-87-7694-89-8 • £19.99, $32

Gendered Inequalities in Asia

Configuring, Contesting and Recognizing Women and Men

Helle Rydstrom (ed.)

By focusing on unequal access to political and religious power, occupation and health facilities, as well as different options when it comes to family life and sexuality, the recognition of women and men are explored in this volume as manifestations of ideas about femininity and masculinity.

Vol. 5, 2010, 304 pages
